

Bionote of Bishnu Raj Upreti

Bishnu Raj Upreti is a Nepali citizen. He holds a PhD in conflict management (2001) from Wageningen University, the Netherlands. He is actively engaged in conflict transformation and peace related research as a researcher in South Asia. During 26 years of professional career, he has engaged as development practitioner, teaching and research (University of London and University of Surrey in the UK, Kathmandu University, Nepal). He worked in international organizations such as UNDP, SDC, IDRC, IUCN, SNV, UMN, International Alert, DANIDA, DFID, Asian Development Bank, World Food programme, Food and Agricultural organisation, and CARE International, ARD Inc, in the capacity of professional staff and consultant. He has also spent some years in government service as an assistant agricultural economist. He has published articles in different national and international journals, magazines and edited books. Some of his recent books are 1) Livelihoods insecurity and Conflict in Nepal (forthcoming) (co-edited). Kathmandu/Bern: Swiss national Centre of Competence in Research North-South. 2) Nepal at Barrel of Gun: Proliferation of Small Arms and Light Weapons and their Impacts (forthcoming) (co-edited).. Kathmandu: South Asia Small Arms Network-Nepal. 3) Armed Conflict and Peace process in Nepal: The Maoist Insurgency, Past Negotiation and Opportunities for Conflict Transformation (2006). New Delhi: Adroit Publishers. 4) The Price of Neglect: From Resource Conflict to Maoist Insurgency in the Himalayan Kingdom (2004). Kathmandu: Bhrikuti Academic Publications. Currently, he is working as part-time Regional Coordinator, South Asia Coordination Office of Swiss National Centre of Competence in Research (NCCR)-North-South, based in Kathmandu, Contract Faculty, Kathmandu University and Executive member of the Board of Friends for Peace (a think tank institution devoted to conflict transformation and peace building).